Wise Lloyd George
The Conscience Fund
She'll Obey, Maybe

Lloyd George, ablest man in Europe, gets things done. He knows, ahead of others, including our "statesmen," that this nation won't allow itself to be mixed up permanently in Europe's affairs, or made international paymaster of the world.

So he swiftly arranges to have Europe atone to her own affairs by arranging a truce, not for us, but for twenty years, with Germany in it, and the only real, feasible economy—peace instead of bloodshed.

Timid Americans will shudder at being left out of this arrangement. WHY should we be in? We do not fight if people let us alone.

In 1911, when Madison was President, some one anonymously sent $5 to the government, saying he owed that to the nation. It was booked under the words "Conscience Fund." Every year since then, excepting two years, some money has been added to the fund. It amounts now to $641,525.59.

How much would it amount to if all those that profited at the expense of government and the people had sent in 10 per cent. of their salaries? That sum would easily pay the soldiers their bonus.

In her wedding service the Princess Mary included the old-fashioned promise to obey. But later, when she and her husband got out, the tall man with the silk calves will announce: "Her Royal Highness," and her husband's name will be mentioned as a poor second.

Everywhere and in everything he will be the small out of the combination. There is nothing to nature to be compared with that couple, except the giant deep-sea crab called "parasite crab." She carries her husband, as big as a dime, safely tucked away under her front flipper, and there he lives contented.

A boy of nineteen, Walter Lida, was out of work and had quarreled with his wife. To avenge himself on her and fate he deliberately drowned his seven-month-old baby in the bath tub, preparing first a pillow in the water, that it might drown comfortably.

Florida, but a revelation to animalism, in which such things are the rule, not horrible exceptions.

The lioness hides the newborn cub from her mate. He will kill and eat them, annoyed at her devotion to them.

The sow, if improperly fed, will eat her farrow—devouring the little pigs to get protein—to supply milk for those that can no longer drink it.

On the other hand, the scorpion allows her young ones to devour her body as they cling to her while she crawls there and more faithfully the scorpion.

Mania, female of hideous mind, calmly eats the brain of her husband at the most critical moment of his life. Head of that in Fabio, it's a strange world, and we have as yet no idea what it is all about.

President Favors Plan to Keep U. S. Merchant Marine on Seven Seas

By International News Service, Washington, Feb. 28.—President Harding went before a joint session of Congress today with a recommendation that the government end its "costly experiment" in the shipping business, grant subsidy to American shipping interests and by so doing pave the way for the rebuilding of a great American merchant marine as the second line of the nation's naval defense.

With his recommendation President Harding laid before Congress a plan complete down to the last detail of how this can be accomplished. He called attention to the fact that the recent armament conference naturally lessened the country's naval defense, and that the necessity for this was compensated, in part, by a strong and adequate fleet of merchant ships, which will once more carry America's flag on seven seas.

LOOKS TO FUTURE
"The relative of strength which among the powers would be really one of disappointing theory," said the President. "If ours is to be a merchant marine, it must be a merchant marine, not a navy."

SCOPE OF PLAN
1.—Liberalization of restrictive marine laws.
2.—Shipping Board to set remaining government ships, not to be continued on Page 5, Column 2.

RUSO REFUSES TO RELEASE WRONG WOMAN

DITCHED BY ESSEX COUNTY

Judge Cox, in the Superior Court today, refused to act on a writ of habeas corpus brought before him in behalf of Mrs. Josephine Garusse of North street, who claims to have been sentenced to a three-month term in the Balm jail by mistake for another woman, and remained her back to the jail.

He recommended to her counsel that application be made to the Essex county commissioners for her release. The commissioners, he said, have the power to act in this case.

Mrs. Garusse returned to the jail, where her attorney indicated that he would make all possible speed to bring the matter to the commissioners' attention.

The outstanding features of the peculiar case are:

- 1—Three women, Mrs. Garusse, Mrs. Rose Russo and Mrs. Lally, were arrested in Lawrence a few weeks ago for shoplifting in Boston.
- 2—Mrs. Garusse was identified as "Mrs. Garusse" on probation for shoplifting in Boston.
- 3—Sentenced to three months in jail in Balm.
- 4—Freed when she proved she was not "Mrs. Garusse."
- 5—Mrs. Garusse refused to serve out the prison term, taking her baby with her.
- 6—Mrs. Garusse claims now she is not the woman wanted, but that Mrs. Russo used her name when arrested in Boston and placed on probation, and should be arrested and sent to serve the term.

Attorney Benjamin Thornburgh, representing Mrs. Garusse, now claims that the Russo woman used Mrs. Garusse's name when she was arrested and that the authorities made a grave mistake in releasing Mrs. Russo. He claims Mrs. Russo had been the police and had been released.

"When Mrs. Russo was arrested in Boston three years ago," declared Attorney Thornburgh today, "she gave the name of Mrs. Garusse. By that name she was known to the police, and when an inspector identified her as Mrs. Garusse it was by that name. He pointed her out to the police, then Mrs. Russo was released."

"Naturally, when she later showed the authorities she was not Mrs. Garusse, the name by which she had been released, she was arrested again, but they have the wrong woman now, and I shall fight to the bitter end to free her."

The whole trouble arose over the fact that the Russo woman gave the name of Mrs. Garusse when arrested in Boston three years ago, and that the authorities made a grave mistake in releasing Mrs. Russo.

RULES SLAYER OF POLICE CAUGHT MUST DIE

Supreme Court Refuses to Allow Exceptions to Verdict Against Solicitani

New solicitor of Cambridge, who in November, 1920, shot and killed the police officer, was today held in the electric chair.

The full bench of the Supreme Court overruled exceptions filed against the decision of the lower court.

A jury in the Essex Superior Court, before Judge Cox, found Solicitani guilty of murder in the first degree, which means death in the electric chair.

The exception overruled today by the Supreme Court related to the refusal of Judge Cox to instruct the jury to bring in a verdict in the second degree, and the judge's denial of a motion for arrest of judgment, on the ground that the indictment was "liberally premeditated," in a charge of murder in the first degree.

On the latter point the court's decision today said:

An accusation of murder in the first degree, when the words "liberally premeditated," in a charge of murder in the first degree, is a charge of murder in the first degree.

Londoners crowded into every inch of space about Buckingham Palace, about the Palace Mall, in Trafalgar square, and in the precincts of the Palace. Many paid high prices for seats in stands or even standing room in windows flanking the way.

Hours before the 2:30 o'clock beginning of the ceremony, the streets were thronged with people, many of whom were waiting for the bride to appear. The sun shone brilliantly as the various sections of the wedding procession started for the altar.

The bride, wearing a gown of ivory white, was escorted by the Duke of York and the Duke of Gloucester. The ceremony was performed by the Archbishop of York and the Dean of Westminster.

WOMAN TALKED WITH DEPARTMENT SAYS RELATIVES WHO SEEK MRS. READ'S ESTATE

The outburst, indignation, psychic influences and other ghostly things figured largely in the contest to break the will of Mrs. Mary A. Read, who died at home, No. 417 Huntington avenue, Medford, March 6, 1916, and which passed by Judge O'Connell and a jury in the Suffolk Superior Court today.

Mrs. Read's estate, which includes her home at East Haverhill, is valued at $125,000.

The contestants are three sisters two nephews and three nieces of the testator. They allege that Mrs. Read was of unsound mind prior to the making of the will, and that she was unduly influenced by the late Joseph C. Aldrich.

After small bequests to a number of near relatives and an annuity to a sister, Mrs. Read left the bulk of her estate to a nephew, "Baby Read," who was a farm at Grandis, Lexington. Mrs. Read left the rest of her estate to a nephew, "Baby Read," who was a farm at Grandis, Lexington.

GIRL WHO TOOK POISON TELLS OF STRUGGLE

Illness Cost Her Job as Well as Scholarship; Spent Last Cash for Tablets

Elizabeth E. Hart, pretty Winthrop girl of twenty-one years, recovering from the effects of a dose of poison which she took to end her life, told the police today the story of a nervous illness that led her to a scholarship at Boston University, and her employment as a telephone operator and drove her to buy "her last fifty cents" the poison tablets she swallowed.

Thwarted ambition and then despair drove her to the end, she said, when she took the "easy way out" in the punishment square courtyard. There, Officer Connelley had caught her, and she was taken to the hospital.

Shortly before her attempt at suicide Miss Hart had told the probation officer that she was a student at Boston University, and that she was a telephone operator. She had no money, and she was in a desperate state.

On her way down stairs from her office she took the poison, she said, and she was in a desperate state. She had no money, and she was in a desperate state.

USE OF LIFE HERE AFTER WEDDING

Miss McCormick's Fiance to Visit Switzerland Only for Short Periods

Zurich, Feb. 28.—When Max Ozer and Miss Mathilde McCormick are married, they plan to make their home in America. But because his young bride-to-be is so much in love with Swiss life, they will return each year to spend a few weeks.

The riding master, fiancé of the granddaughter of John D. Rockefeller, is now seeking some picturesque ancient estate which he may purchase to be the home of himself and his young wife in these annual visits to Switzerland.

Ozer has been visiting at Blue's for some days and is reported to have been in quest of an ancient castle near here.

"I think it is remarkable that the whole world is so concerned in my marriage," declared Ozer.

"But it is more curious to discover that I have so many unknown relatives as are springing up all over America. Even family is quite small."

"I am in correspondence with members of the McCormick family, but no conditions have been made for marriage. Especially there has been no condition as to the bride's dowry."

"But I find that it is self-evident that out of continental Europe, the family is about to become an American citizen, live in America and carry American customs."

"I am much interested in America and I wish to maintain connections in Switzerland. I will buy a country estate in Western Switzerland, where I can live as a gentleman farmer for a few weeks each year. My inclinations in this respect are stronger because my future wife knows and loves Swiss life."

ENGLISH MEN TAXICAB AFTER MAKING VISIT

Deer Island Official, Who Was in Political War, Succumbs to Heart Attack

James F. English, former superintendent of pauper institutions of Long Island and rear officer at the House of Correction at Deer Island, died in a taxi cab today, while on his way home from the house of a friend on Hancock street. Purchased on his heart disease was believed to be the cause.

English was in his seventieth year.

In Edward H. Ferguson, who was summoned when English was taken in the cab, ordered him sent to the City Hospital, where on arrival, he was pronounced dead. His daughter, Mrs. A. M. Leary of No. 22 Anabel street, Roxbury, was notified.

The appointment of English, on January 4, 1911, to the court post on Deer Island, marked the beginning of his political romances in the history of the local Democratic party.

This row, of which English was the focus, was seen by many as the cause of the political defeat of John F. Fitzgerald by the late Mayor Hibbard, and threatened for a complete victory to disrupt the local democracy.

English had been prominent in Democratic politics of his district, and was regarded as a close friend of the friends of Fitzgerald, who supported him financially, although that support was to contribute toward a sweeping political defeat.

As superintendent on Long Island, English had been made the target of attack by the then trustees of those institutions. Charges were preferred against him and he was ordered dismissed.

John F. Fitzgerald, then Mayor, refused to discharge English, and ordered an investigation of the trustees themselves. Following this, Fitzgerald dismissed the entire board.

When the late Mayor Hibbard, who defeated Fitzgerald, assumed office, one of his first official acts was to discharge English.

BETTY ALDEN'S COMMENT ON BOSTON SOCIETY Bridge Is Substituted for Junior League Luncheon

By BETTY ALDEN.

TODAY there will be no luncheon at the rooms of the Junior League of Boston, but instead there will be bridge at three o'clock and afternoon tea will be served.

The recent afternoon of bridge was so exceedingly pleasant that the committee hopes for a large attendance today.

Legislative luncheons will be resumed on Wednesday in March, and these will be followed by Mrs. Jackson Fleming's afternoon course in current events, for which the members will meet at the Copley-Plaza Hotel.

A popular member of the Junior League is Miss Ellen Greenough, who has been widely fêted since her debut early this Winter.

Interest is rolling up daily in the entertainment to be given at the Boston Opera House on the last night of March by the Infanta Hospital Cabaret Committee.

The aid of that appealing charity. The feature of the evening will be the musical comedy, "Why Not?" with a Spanish setting, the work of Mrs. Hendrick Hale Whitman, who was Adelaide Chaffin-Taylor of Chicago, and who made her debut last Spring in one of the leading roles of the Vincent Club annual offering.

The cast for the comedy includes Mrs. Frederick J. Bradley, Jr. of Milton and New York, who made such a hit on the busy public club stage several years ago; George Peabody Gardner, Jr., also of Pudding Lane; Reginald Foster, B. Mason Hamlin, Alvin Sorrell, and Algonzo H. Greig.

Another part of the entertainment is to be a side show in charge of Mrs. Oliver Ames, Jr., with a corps of assistants, which will be featured between the acts.

There will also be other events on the program, which will end up with dancing on the stage and a supper.

On the Hospital Cabaret committee are Mesdames Oliver Ames, Jr., Joseph G. Bradley, Arthur M. Bosse, William W. Caswell, Allan Forbes, John Homan, James Jackson, Jr., John Lawrence, George H. Swift, Rudolph Wolf and John E. Thayer, Jr., with Mrs. Homer B. Richardson as the efficient and charming chairman.

It will not be put on public sale at Herrick's until the 15th of March.

The ceremony took place at the Church of Notre Dame des Victoires, the French place of worship in London street.

The bride is the daughter of Monsieur and Mme. Paul Palley of Greenboro. Mr. Lee is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis W. Lee of 48 Hammond street, Chestnut Hill.

The engagement of Miss Palley to Mr. Lee was announced last September. At the ceremony Saturday, which took place just before noon, the bride had for her maid of honor and only attendant Miss Susan D. Lee, sister of the bridegroom.

She wore conventional white and carried a bouquet of white roses and white sweet peas, combined with blue of the valley.

Raymond P. Baldwin of Concord, Harvard, 1916, and a classmate of the bridegroom, attended him as best man, and Warren D. Arnold of Brookline, also a Harvard 1916 man, had charge of the wedding.

PLAN $2,000,000 HOSPITAL FOR VETERANS

Massachusetts Promised Big Sanitarium for Treatment of Mental Cases

A $2,000,000 hospital for treatment of mental and nervous cases among war veterans is promised for New England in the near future, according to Colonel Robert W. Patterson, assistant director of the United States Veterans Bureau, who was in Boston today inspecting army hospitals.

Colonel Patterson told a Boston American reporter that the $2,000,000 appropriation for hospital work among the veterans will undoubtedly pass through Congress at an early date. This is the so-called Langley appropriation, and it is favored by a majority of the Congress.

The building program pending on this appropriation has already been made out. As soon as the money is available, work will be started on a $2,000,000 hospital for mental and nervous cases for New England veterans. This hospital will be built in Massachusetts. It will be ready within two years.

"The hospital will be thoroughly modern. It will have a staff of 100 physicians and 250 attendants. The colonel said that the growth of mental and nervous cases among veterans is indicated by the present need of 12,000 beds. The tuberculosis hospital for veterans at Rutland, he said, would be ready by June 1 of this year.

Success of Boston America. Referendum Vote 860 to 468 Against Allowing Him to Raise Tax Limit

A vote of $60 to 468 on a referendum to the members, the Boston Chamber of Commerce went on record today as opposed to the granting of Mayor Curley's request to the Legislature to remove the tax limit for Boston.

The specific question voted on was: "Should the State Legislature permit the Mayor of Boston to establish the tax limit for the city subject to be authority of the City Council to determine the limit for the city, whatever limit is fixed by the Mayor."

Those opposed to the removal of the tax limit pointed out that, while the present limit is $100,000, a limit of some kind tends to enforce economy and accountability on the part of city officials.

OPPOSES BAN ON POISON GAS

Preparedness Should Lead U. S. to Caution in Treaty, Says Senator

Washington, Feb. 28.—"Better first wipe out bullets, shrapnel and high explosives before attempting to prohibit poison gas," Senator Wadsworth, Republican, of New York, chairman of the Senate Military Affairs Committee, declared today in condemning the Armament Conference agreement for the abolition in war of death-dealing gases.

Senator Wadsworth said he favored striking the gas agreement from the five-power treaty intended to govern armaments usage in which it was incorporated.

Preparedness alone should impel the United States to proceed with caution in agreeing not to use poison gas until there had been a world-wide agreement that it was not to be employed by any nation, Wadsworth said.

When he voted as a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee to report favorably the conference treaty, Wadsworth reserved the right to oppose the agreement on the Senate floor. Wadsworth said he believed bullets, shrapnel and high explosives as far more inhumane than poison gas.

He cited records of the A. B. C. F. to demonstrate his contention that fatalities and injuries from battlefield gases were far less than those due to other weapons.

General Fries, chief of the Chemical Warfare Service, U. S. A., to sustain his argument that poison gas is much less deadly than is popularly supposed.

Famous Vaudeville Star Takes Ironized Yeast

With Amazing Results

The Remarkable Experience of Lillian Steele

"I NEVER dreamed that Ironized Yeast could bring such an extraordinary improvement in me. Why, it just seems to have made an entirely new person of me!"

Such is the amazing statement of Lillian Steele, star of the well known "Lillian Steele Trio," vaudeville headliners, made when interviewed regarding her experience with Ironized Yeast.

"My work played havoc with my system in general and before I knew it I was in a badly run-down condition. I seemed to lose all my energy. My appetite deserted me. I kept losing weight, and my color was fast disappearing. The worst of it all was that nothing seemed to bring any noticeable relief. I surely thought that I would have to give up my career and rest up. It was then that I heard of Ironized Yeast."

"Ironized Yeast seemed to have a magical effect on me. It just seemed to fill me with new life—new energy! My weight and appetite both showed splendid increases, and the improvement in my complexion is just wonderful. I cannot describe the delight I feel because of my improvement, and will always be one of Ironized Yeast's most enthusiastic boosters."

Splendid Results Everywhere
Miss Steele's statement, remarkable as it may seem is not at all unusual, for from everywhere come equally surprising reports of the results brought by Ironized Yeast.

The reason for these results is simply this—Ironized Yeast is not only rich in all three essential vitamins, but in addition contains a type of yeast which is unequalled as a reconstructive agent—a yeast which is cultured expressly for medicinal purposes.

GIRL OF THIRTEEN IS GIVEN LICENSE AS PASTOR

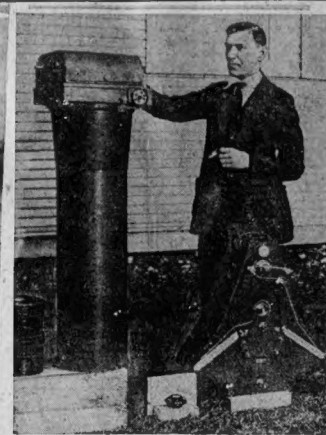

TOOT SWEET! Speaking of asps, it's always a sure sign of Spring when the snakes begin to curl above the maple sugar sheds. Here's a real old-fashioned "factory" in Vermont. "Madame" can be observed in the fire pit.

A RECORD-BREAKING SONG! When you get tired of hearing other folks' talent on your phonograph, just make your own records. A new device introduced by a New York company enables you to make records in your own home.

SHE NEEDED SAND FOR THIS! Letrice Joy, who moves in the movie world, was a bit by donning heavy winter clothing and "mashing" through the desert dust of California on snow shoes. She says it's an ideal way to reduce. Photographed halfway to her destination.

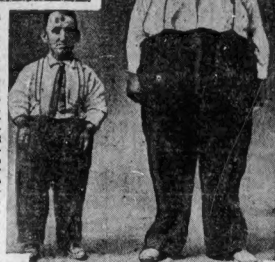

COUNT IL'YA TOLSTOY, son of great Russian writer, who says that the "four-power pact" is dangerous to the world. Thinking Americans know it is dangerous to America. Tolstoy finds that the pact is too intricate.

ALFRED RINEHART, 19, of Elizabeth, N. J., and his tiny radio receiving outfit, the smallest ever made. It measures, but 1 1/2 x 1 1/2 inches. He is now trying to reduce it by one-half.

WELL DONE, LIZ! Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Warrick started from Quincy, Ill., on Nov. 28, last, for San Francisco in a "Linnie Corvus," and they have just reached their destination, after experiencing more thrills than a movie serial. Here they are with their kin-wat home.

SEEING THINGS! The camera in the center looking so much like a snobstick is considered the largest aerial camera in the world and was constructed for the Army Air Service. It will take photographs from 35,000 feet, or nearly seven miles. An object as small as an ant will be visible on plate, although plane cannot be seen or heard. At right is a new three-lens camera designed by Major Bagley.

OPIE AND ED KARNES, cousin, who claim to be the biggest and smallest men in West Virginia. Opie stands six feet and weighs 300 pounds. Ed weighs 90 pounds and is hardly more than half as tall.

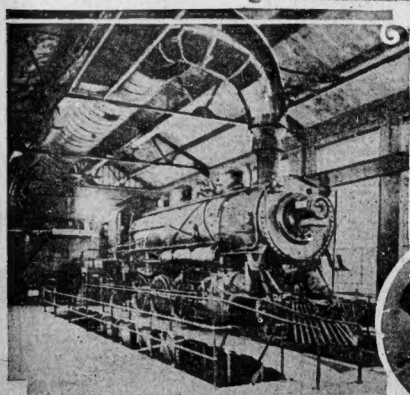

THE "VILLAGE CUT UP" MAY GO! Dzerzhinsky, Russian Soviet's chief high executioner, who may lose his job as a result of the many protests by workers in Moscow and other centers. An uprising is feared unless wholesale killings are stopped.

COMELY CO-ED! Miss Constance Crenshaw, blonde, bewitching and beautiful, picked as one of the three comeliest girl students at the University of California.

GETTING THE COLD SHOULDER! William E. Connolly of Spring Lake, Mich., former State Senator, takes a daily plunge in Spring Lake—no matter how cold it is. Mercury was just zero when this was taken.

THREE GUESSES. What is it? It runs forty miles an hour, but doesn't run anywhere. Give up? It's the best locomotive in the locomotive laboratory of the University of Illinois, and has solved problems in fuel wastes, tonnage capacity, etc. Drive wheels rest on other wheels built fast to floor.

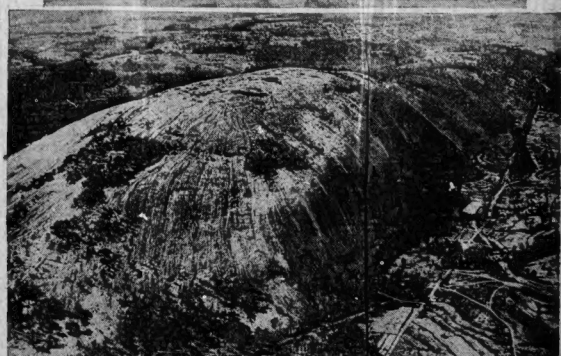

MISS ORETTA STODDARD, 13, of Miami, Okla., who has been granted a license to preach the gospel by the Northwestern Oklahoma Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

"THE FLOWERS THAT BLOOM IN THE SPRING, TRA LA!" Flowers and grasses of green delicately contrasted with the orchid organs of this charming Spring model makes it one of the most beautiful thus far exhibited. The popularity of the model was clearly established at the Southland resorts.

"AIN'T NATURE GRAND?" Imagine, kids, having to learn "Gythenatic a'severything" out in the snow and with next to nothing on. That's just what these little pupils of a nature school in the Swiss Alps are doing. They don't need your sympathy, because they are hardy and happy and the mortality of the class is lower than if they attend a steam-heated school.

THE UNTOUCHED PAGE of the Greatest Memorial in the history of the World! The first airplane view of Stone Mountain, eighteen miles east of Atlanta, Ga., on which Gutten Berghman, mounted at an expenditure of $2,000,000. Contributed by the South of today. Stone Mountain 700 feet high and a solid block of granite.
